Curriculum Overview.

Intent

We aim to offer a high-quality history education which will help pupils gain a coherent knowledge and understanding of Britain's past and that of the wider world. Our curriculum should inspire pupils' curiosity to know more about the past. Teaching should equip pupils to ask perceptive questions, think critically, weigh evidence, sift arguments, and develop perspective and judgement. A secure grasp of history will helps pupils to understand the complexity of people's lives, the process of change, the diversity of societies and relationships between groups, as well as the challenges of their time.

We intend that children;

- know and understand the history of these islands as a coherent, chronological narrative
- know and understand significant aspects of the history of the wider world
- understand historical concepts such as continuity and change, cause and consequence, similarity, difference and significance
- understand the methods of historical enquiry, including how evidence is used rigorously to make historical claims

It is our intention that children understand how and why events in the past have shaped the modern world and our place within it. We intend that children understand the history of their local area and how this has impacted on or reflects history of the UK and the wider world. In order to do all of that, our children need access to a rich, carefully structured history curriculum which engages interest and excites curiosity,

Implementation

As a school, we maintain strong links to the National Curriculum guidelines to ensure all aspects, knowledge and skills of History are being taught across all year groups. We use progression grids to ensure there is clear skills, knowledge and vocabulary progression throughout school. Our curriculum is taught on a two-year cycle or 4 year cycle according to the school site. The curriculum is taught according to phase or mixed age classes according to the individual circumstances of each school

Where appropriate we use historical artefacts, visitors, workshops and visits to excite and intrigue our children to find out more about events and people from the past. We aim to give our children as much understanding as possible about what is was like to be around at a particular period in history by having practical and experiential lessons where possible.

We will use assessment for learning to ensure all lessons are relevant and will help to plan for next steps. Foundation subjects are assessed at the end of each year stating whether children are working towards, are expected or exceeding age-related expectations.

Impact

Through the high quality first teaching of History taking place we will see the impact of the subject in different ways. Through pupil voice children will be able to talk about the skills and knowledge they have acquired. Children will be engaged in History lessons and want to find out more. Children will complete research independently through projects and homework and to further their own enjoyment about the subject or topic. Work will show that a range of topics is being covered, cross curricular links are made where possible and differentiated work set as appropriate. The school environment will be history rich through displays, resources, vocabulary etc. As historians, children will learn lessons from history to influence the decisions they make in their lives in the future. Assessments and monitoring will show standards in History will be high and will match standards in other subject areas.

EYFS

The EYFS framework is structured very differently to the national curriculum as it is organised across seven areas of learning rather than subject areas. The table below outlines the most relevant statements taken from the Early Learning Goals in the EYFS statutory framework and the Development Matters age ranges for Three and Four-Year-Olds and Reception to match the programme of study for history. The most relevant statements for history are taken from the following area of learning: Understanding of the World

History
Three and Four-Year-Olds	Understanding the World	 Begin to make sense of their own life-story and family's history.
Reception	Understanding the World	 Comment on images of familiar situations in the past. Compare and contrast characters from stories, including figures from the past.

ELG Understanding the World	Past and Present	 Talk about the lives of people around them and their roles in society. Know some similarities and differences between things in the past and now, drawing on their experiences and what has been read in class. Understand the past through settings, characters and events encountered in books read in class and storytelling.
